

Managing Conflicts of Interest

Webinar workshop

27 October 2020, 09:00 - 12:30

Why attend this workshop?

The president can't have a conflict of interest.

Donald Trump

Conflicts of interest is probably the most talked about ethical issue in South Africa and elsewhere in 2020. If the President of the United States displays this level of ignorance about conflicts of interest, it stands to reason that uncertainty about the topic is omnipresent. There is equal haziness about how to manage conflicts once they have been identified and disclosed.

The purpose of this workshop is to equip delegates with a focused and structured approach to managing conflicts of interest.

The need for justice grows out of the conflict of human interests. That is to say, if there were no conflict of interests among mankind we should never have invented the word justice, nor conceived the idea for which it stands.

Thomas Nixon Carver (1915).

"Essays in Social Justice"

Who should attend?

- Ethics officers
- All persons that have been tasked to manage ethics in their organisations
- All functionaries that have been tasked to manage conflicts of interest their organisations

- Executives
- Leaders at all organisational levels
- Ethics champions and ambassadors
- Functionaries of governance clusters (risk, company secretariat, compliance, legal, forensics, internal audit)
- Line managers who regularly have to make decisions about conflicts of interest.

The most difficult thing is to recognize that sometimes we too are blinded by our own incentives. Because we don't see how our conflicts of interest work on us.

Dan Ariely
