

Arising from the ashes – stories of ETHICAL RESTORATION AND MORAL COURAGE

11th Annual Hybrid Ethics Conference

23 May 2024 | 10:00 – 16:00

Over the past decade, South Africa has witnessed a significant decline in ethical standards within organisations. This decline has been a cause for concern, reaching a peak as revelations about corrupt practices surfaced during the Zondo Commission of Inquiry into State Capture. There is no doubt that the period of state capture had a profound negative impact on the moral fabric of organisations in the private, public, and state-owned sectors. In our history as a democracy, there has never been such a pressing need for the restoration of ethical leadership in our organisations.

Our conference theme, Arising from the ashes – stories of ethical restoration, is dedicated to exploring the ethical leadership journeys of individuals who have steered their respective organisations through times of crisis and emerged stronger, working diligently to restore their organisations' reputation and trust.

The conference includes an Ethical Leadership Symposium followed by a workshop and can be attended either in person or virtually.
